

IVINS ABSOLUTELY SURE.

TELLS UNION LEAGUE.

Mayor Makes Break—Says His Appeal Is "Not to Honest Men."

William M. Ivins spoke at a remarkable meeting at the Union League Club, where his reception was most enthusiastic. He expressed himself as absolutely sure of election.

A dispatch was received by Senator Elsberg from Secretary Loeb denying for the President that he had given any such interview as was published in "The New York Herald" yesterday.

About three hundred thousand postcards, sent out by Tammany to influence voters against William R. Hearst, were confiscated by Postmaster Willcox, or the ground that they were scurrilous.

W. R. Hearst ended his fight in Kings by one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the campaign. He assailed Tammany's campaign methods.

Mayor McClellan at Durland's by a slip of the tongue said his appeal was not to honest men. He made his first attack on Hearst.

Mr. Jerome addressed two enthusiastic

CLUB CHEERS MR. IVINS

Union League Most Enthusiastic Over the Candidate.

Speaking to a remarkable gathering at the Union League Club yesterday afternoon, William M. Ivins declared that he was absolutely assured of election, and promised when Mayor he give this city the best business administration

tation would characterize that administration he said: not even loyalty to party would swerve available source would be welcome, said Mr. Ivins, but his, and his only, would be the decisions.

utterances, which went home to his heart every time.

later her affairs so she shall take among the cities of the world that high place which our loved President, Theodore Roosevelt, has given us among the nations," declared Mr. Ivin. With a burst of applause, half his dignified hearers were on their feet, waving hats and shouting like schoolboys.

"Maybe I'm a little different from some men, but I wasn't made to stand a boss," said the candidate. "I'm not a Mayor. I'll have no boss. There will exist no man superior to me. We come out of New-York City; he won't come out of New-York State; no, nor out of the United States." "Good, good," exclaimed his hearers.

"If Tammany should win, Mayor McClell could be made practically a negligible quantity with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the hands of the organization, the city would have no protection," declared Mr. Ivin.

"If I am elected I'll do my best to repeal the Mortgage Tax bill, which I consider the most insidious form of indirect taxation," was the declaration which brought cheer after cheer from the staid business men in the room.

UNUSUAL POLITICAL MEETING.

As a political meeting the affair was most unusual. Theoretically, it was a club meeting.

Ivins and District Attorney Jerome Reilly, developed into a demonstration for the Republican candidate; a meeting dignified and sincere in tone, breaking out at times into applause when Mr. Ivins made some telling shot at Tammany, or earnestly promised to free the city of its swathings of "graft."

when Cornelius N. Bliss introduced Mr. Ivins date, followed by the most earnest attention he began to speak. One of his most enthusiastic supporters seemed to be I. Townsend Smith, the long.

Mr. Bliss, in introducing Mr. Ivins, said it was a good thing for the members to hear the candidate campaign issues direct from a candidate. He said:

They are very curious conditions when we go to Tammany Hall begging her ancient enemies to let Republicans to vote for the Tammany Tiger. It is a little hard to understand the motives of the Tammany leadership. It is the personality of McClellan and his efforts for four years to put the Tammany Tiger in the White House would justify our putting the Tammany Tiger in the White House for four years if it was possible. He has only limited power in the Board of Estimate and Appropriations, now so important a part of our city government.

Then there is that other candidate who we deprive of the right to be a candidate of his own party. All that is required now is that we lay down the law to the Tammany Tiger and let the Republicans come out to vote for Mr. Ivins to oust Tammany for four years of clean government.

MR. IVINS'S SPEECH.

Then Mr. Ivins said:

This is altogether the most remarkable case in the history of the city government.

ever known of. To begin with, the issues are absolutely of the first magnitude. I do not believe the state, and such possibilities for good, which I brought with such possibilities for danger, and I answered that question in the affirmative, and in a quiet situation.

It is quite needless for me here to talk to you about the future of our city, or to talk to you the greatness of a municipality with four mill and a quarter school fund, and about the difficulties of securing good government, because you all know and realize that that is not the question before you.

You realize what that means. Are whether our home shall be made a disgrace in the eyes of the people, or whether we shall be able to occupy the same place in the eyes of the world that Mr. Roosevelt has occupied in the world? That is the question. You say when you cast your vote and for me to accomplish when I am elected. (Applause.)

And I think it would have seemed impossible that the Republicans and the Independents of New York City would have been able to get the control of government, taking it out of the hands of Tammany Hall. That chance has come to us. I think it is a great chance.

Remember this, that Mr. Hearst and his campaign are only aspects of Tammany after all. The Tammany of today is not the Tammany of 1890. It is because of that that we have a chance to secure the government, turning Tammany out of office, and electing a Mayor who will be able to move by electing a Mayor alone. The entire ticket must be elected, and I think the only ticket that has a chance of that, as it is to-day, virtually of Estimate and Apportionment—that is to say, board of trustees—and the question is, Are you going to elect your trustees properly? Are you (Commencing Sunday, November 5, the Seco-

1:02 p. m., arriving Buffalo 10:20 p. m., stopping Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Batavia.